WESTERN RATE WAR

THE EXCURSION AGREEMENT DIS-REGARDED BY ALL LINES.

Price of Round-Trip Tickets from St. Louis to Denver Cut from $22.50 to $20-Other Railway News,

The excursion agreement of the Western Passenger Association was given a staggering blow yesterday by the news from St. Louis that the Alton was making a rate of $20 for the round trip between St. Louis and Denver for the convention of the Homeopathic Society, a cut of $2.50 from the regular authorized rate. The Missouri Pacific at once put in the twenty-dollar rate on hearing that the Alton had cut under the tariff, and the Atchison lost no time in following suit. The other Denver lines also joined in without loss of time. General Passenger Agent Chariton, of the Alton, denied in the most emphatic manner that the rates were being cut by his line, but the St. Louis agents of the other lines were positive and unanimous in their charges against the Alton. Chairman Caldwell is still hopeful that he will be able to keep trouble within bounds, but the prospect of his doing so is not bright.

Methods of Promotion.

It was recently announced that there was a movement on the Santa Fe and on the Missouri Pacific among train men looking to the promotion of men on merit, without any regard to duration of employment on the road. On the Missouri Pacific there was a majority in favor of such a plan for promotion, while on the Santa Pe the majority was against such method, but the agitation of the matter has not ceased and it is becoming one of the chief topics of conversation among train men, especially engineers and firemen. As would be expected, these ideas are advanced by the younger men in service, who have become thoroughly convinced of their own merit and are unwilling to see the higher rounds of the ladder filled by their seniors. A railroad official, who still holds to the opinion that men should be promoted on seniority, in commenting on the agitation now going on, says in an interview: "Experience, and nothing except experience, will show who is fitted for promotion to higher positions. Railway officials, as well as factory overlookers, mine bosses, or superintendents are at times wofully deceived by employes who seem to be more than ordinarily efficient, but prove to be wholly unreliable. A man who strictly follows instructions may be entirely at a loss when the least independent thought or action is required. Where large numbers are employed it is probable that some bright, handy, but dishonest person will manage to gain a foothold. Men of great strength and dexterity sometimes have the unpleasant trait of becoming helplessly drunk when they are most needed. Violent temper renders some wholly unfit for promotion. Some individuals, endowed with many excellent traits, are fitful, and will leave good positions without any grievance simply because they like a change and want to see new faces and new places. Gradually the merits and demerits of men become more evident. Employes who have been railroading it for a few weeks or months very probably think it a hardship to see the best vacancies filled by men of long standing. But the evils of being a junior necessarily lessen. Perhaps some of the complainants who now make the loudest objections to the prevailing system will gradually acquiesce in it. Should they, after years of faithful service, be offered promotion, it is likely that they would accept the same, even though numerous jun-iors denounced the rule of seniority."

Personal, Local and General Notes. The roads terminating at Galveston, Tex., will erect a union depot at a cost of $75,000. In April, 1893, the Chicago & Rock Island had 13,374 men in its employ; in April, 1894, E. A. Ford, passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg, is on a western trip.

An effort is making to revive the freight bureau at Memphis, Tenn., which passed out of existence about a year ago. The Texas extension of the Chicago & Rock Island is said to be already paying operating expenses and fixed charges. The anti-railroad movement is crystallizing in the shape of a certainty that a commission will be created to fix rates.

Roswell Miller, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, has returned from Europe, after an absence of three months. J. B. Harter, late superintendent of the Chicago & Southeastern, has secured a judgment against that company for $800 for services while holding that position. The Wabash management has succeeded

Superintendent Mansfield, of the Indianapolis & Vincennes, is of the opinion that on Monday next the miners on that road will return to work. He bases this belief on reports he has received from the mining district on that line. Freight officials of the trunk lines will meet to-day in New York to consider the action of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and other Western lines in ceasing through billing on present divisions. The step was taken by the Western lines on account of the trunk lines' demand The Indianapolis and Terre Haute di-visions of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers announce that they will aid in pushing the investigation now in progress and will permit no cessation until the mur-derer of William Barr, the Vandalia engineer, is brought to justice. The friends of Cyrus Dixon, who for years was ticket agent of the Big Four at this point, now assistant general passenger agent of the Great Northern, will be pained to learn that he has been obliged to place his wife in an insane asylum, she having become violently insane. No branch of railroad service has felt nore seriously the depressed times than the telegraph department. A division su-perintendent says there is not a day that there are not eight or ten applications for positions in that department, and a large per cent. of the applicants have excellent indorsements.

The decree of Judge Taft ordering the sale of the Louisville Southern Railroad Company, unless the interest and principal of the bonds is paid in twenty days, was filed in the United States clerk's office at Louisville yesterday. E. T. Habey was appointed special master to make the sale, and the upset price is set at $1,000,000 in cash or bonds of the road.

General Passenger and Ticket Agent Lomax, of the Union Pacific, declares that he has withdrawn all side-trip privileges on the rates to the Denver conventions, as agreed by the Western Passenger Association, and says that if the Erie or any other line insists on selling tickets with the side-trip privileges they will have to pay the Union Pacific full fare.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Western Passenger Association convened at Chicago yesterday, but did very little out-side of routine business, Several organizations which have been granted low fares for their meetings had representatives present, who asked for a longer time limit on their tickets, but no action was taken on any of the demands by the association. While East-bound rates at St. Louis and Chicago, under the new pooling agreement, are unquestionably held to tariff, at some of the junction points it is alleged that rates are being manipulated, Peoria being one of the places named, and efforts are to be made at once to pool such points before it leads to a demoralization at the more important Western shipping points. I. D. Baldwin, general agent of the Monon and the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, who yesterday returned from the Pa-cific coast, says that business with the far Western roads is very light, except in passengers returning east who went to San Francisco on the low-rate tickets. In such places as Seattle, Tacoma and Portland he was surprised to find how little was doing. He returns much better satisfied with the business Indiana and Illinois roads are do-

William Garstang, superintendent of motive power of the Big Four, left yesterday for Saratoga, N. Y., to attend the master nechanics' annual convention, and to-day A. J. F. Tucker, commissioner of the Chicago & Ohio River Traffic Association, is holding the membership in line with a firm hand. The Big Four and the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton and the Monon secured large bodies of men each to carry from Cincinnati to Chicago, and the Pennsylvania Company are said to have intimated that the business was not secured strictly under the agreement between the lines. Commissioner Tucker settled the grievance by authorizing the Pennsylvania to run an excursion from Cincinnati to Chicago to even Spotters have been working the Wabash road, and, as a result, passenger con-ductors Dewey and Gibson have been arrested and placed under bond for alleged irregularities in handling the company's moneys. Mr. Dewey was for several years agent of the United States Express Company at Wabash, Ind. Both say they will be able to acquit themselves of the charges preferred against them. This is a new departure for the railroad companies; heretofore passenger conductors have simply been discharged when spotters' reports were unfavorable to their honesty.

West-bound passenger rates are again be-coming somewhat unsettled. A belief pre-vails that the Lake Erie & Western, in connection with the Chicago & Alton, is cutting the agreed rates just enough to carry considerable business. In passenger circles there is a feeling that a boycott of the Lake Erie & Western would simply advertise its line, and to take such action would be unwise. Still, it is likely to lead to competing lines making as low rates as does the Lake Erie & Western, the Chicago & Alton and the Union Pacific to Denver or any other point west, as the manipulating of rates, if reports are true, is by no means confined to Denver business.

A number of local freight agents of Indiana roads left, yesterday, for Pittsburg, to attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Local Freight Agents, which was organized seven years ago. The session will last caree days. The subject of refrigerator cars and the best methods of transporting tropical fruits will be taken up, and, incidental to this, the question whether an agent is justified in diverting freight to a competing line if the contents of a car are refused on account of defects in the car which cannot be repaired while the car is loaded. The responsibility of a company for freight will be another inter-esting subject considered, and a number of papers will be read bearing on railroad

THE WRIT OF ERROR

PETITION FOR IT IN THE COFFIN CASE FILED YESTERDAY.

Preparing for the Evidence Against Schuyler Haughey-Receiver for Guaranty Company Sought.

The last local petition in the bank cases so far as Francis and Percival Coffin are concerned, was filed in the United States Court yesterday afternoon. The attorneys for the prisoners, Messrs. Winter & Elam and John S. Duncan, deposited in the office of the United States clerk a document containing an assignment of sixty errors as required by the rules. The prayer for a writ of error after setting up a list of six errors, says: "We pray Your Honor to order that said writ of error shall operate as a supersedeas pending a hearing of said cause in the Supreme Court, and that in the meantime these petitioners be released on bail, to be fixed by Your Honor." The attorneys are arranging to present their case to Justice Harlan to-day, if he can hear them. John W. Kern will represent the government, the district attorney being tied up with the criminal calendar. Frank M. Hayes, the expert accountant, is busy preparing the testimony to be brought out in the case against Schuyler Haughey. He is being assisted by Louis J. Robinson.

A GUARANTY COMPANY'S AFFAIRS.

Lew Wallace, Jr., Asks for the Appointment of a Receiver. Lew Wallace, jr., has applied to the courts for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the affairs of the Guaranty Savings, Life and Accident Association. Some months ago the affairs of the company were said to be embarrassed. and the company was reorganized. The complainant, as one of the officials of the company, says in his complaint that the affairs of the corporation have been in a bad way since the death of the general manager, Stephen M. Douglass, on April 11. The members, it is alleged, are in arrears $2,800, and the death of Manager Douglass not only deprived the company of his services but took $1,000 out of the insurance fund. The complaint shows that the assothe hard times would be remunerative. The plaintiff avers that he has a plan by which the members of the insolvent corporation may be reinsured in another company and with no loss to themselves. The court is asked to name a receiver for the association and to wind up its affairs.

He Was to Be Superintendent. George W. Moore has commenced suit against William M. Franklin, J. N. Hurty and five other defendants to enforce the fulfillment of a contract which he alleges was entered into between himself and the defendants on June 25, 1890. The latter were the directors of the Spencer mineral springs, in which corporation Moore owned $5,000 stock. He bought the same, he says, on the promise that he was to be made superintendent of the mineral springs. He shows that the defendants failed to keep their part of the contract, and avers that by reason of this breach of faith he has been damaged in the sum of $12,000.

Indicted for Manslaughter. Claude Sanders, the young colored man who accidentally shot and killed Willey Taylor, also colored, has been indicted by the Marion county grand jury. He is charged with involuntary manslaughter. Taylor was killed about three weeks ago, at Keach's commission house, where he was employed. Sanders picked up a pistol, and playfully shoving the weapon into Tay-lor's face, pulled the trigger. Taylor died six hours later, and his friends at once began to pick up information which they placed in the possession of the grand jury.

MOZART HALL GLADIATORS.

A Series of Bouts in a Stifling Atmosphere.

The Hale-Wrade sparring contest came off last night at Mozart Hall. Forty or fifty sporting gentlemen and ex-pugilists paid 50 cents each to linger in a stifling atmosphere, redolent with the fumes of bad whisky and tobacco. They yelled and swore alternately at the efforts of six men and two boys to chew each other to pieces. The police were there, consequently the delectable entertainment did not develop anything more violent than the dislocation of a few teeth, a discolored eye and a bloody nose. At 8:30 o'clock the performance had not begun, and the air of the hall grew so dense that a number of the spectators began to grow restless and to evince a disposition to bolt. However, a stampede was averted by the appearance of "Billie" Barlow in the ring. Barlow has won some distinction as a wrestler, and his appearance seemed to have a profound impression upon the crowd. He announced that he had a treat in store for the audience and that the gore of Messrs. Hale and Wrade would be reserved for the last. Then the crowd remained and was rewarded. Master George Smith, a promising child of thirteen summers, swaggered into the ring, garbed only in a badly-soiled suit of nature's own. It being circulated about the hall that the youngster was a pupil of the redoubtable Hale, he became quite prominent and strut-ted about the ring like a bantam cock in an onion bed. Charles Wrade, another precocious stripling of fifteen, was introduced as the brother of pugilist Wrade, and he im-mediately became popular. Then Barlow called time and these youngsters went at it. The contest lasted for thirty minutes, during which period the aspiring youths succeeded in flaying each other until their skins were as red as the flag of an Anarch-After the pair had grown thoroughly exhausted they were led out and a couple of grown gladiators brought in. One of these men sails under the magnificent title of "Tug" Wilson, and appeared to be well known both to the crowd and the police. His antagonist was Elmer Corkins, not unknown as a local pug. These two worthles shook hands and buffeted each other around for three or four rounds. At the end of the irst bout Corkins showed decided tions of "short wind," and was carefully groomed by Jack Conley, known to the fighting world as "Poke Woods." Mr. Conley was compelled to curry his man with one hand, the other having been relegated to bandages, the result of a recent stabbing affray. The contest between Wilson and Corkins was devoid of those atrocties so longed for by the crowd, and the exhibition was voted disgustingly tame. At this point Barlow announced with great gusto that another one of the Wrade family would appear with Fred Heintz, a gentleman heretofore unknown in the amateur ring. Mr. Heintz brought into the circle with him a figure of beefy splendor, and with such hauteur did he take his corner that the crowd decided the fate of Mr. Wrade to be about as uncertain as the Wilson tariff bill. These speculations were not far amiss. The gentleman with the Teutonic features proceeded to land on the face of the representative of a famous family, and Wrade was boosted out of the ring with a bleeding nose and black eyes. The sight of the tiny stream of carmine that traced a ruddy line down the face of the vanquished pugilist aroused the sports that crouched about the ring, and they were in delightful condition to receive the principals of the stellar attraction. The crowd said that Hale was in fine form, and it was asserted that he would literally eat up the last of the Wrades. Mr. Hale danced and capered about the ring with the glee of a young bulldog waiting the appearance of the hired girl's company from the back door. Both men met, clasped hands and smiled with all the geniality of a couple of hyenas. At this juncture referee Barlow mounted a chair, and, addressing the crowd by the strange sound of "gentlemen," divulged the information that Wrade and Hale, owing to the fact that the receipts were but $6.20, would spar three rounds instead of eight. The crowd displayed decided lynching symptoms, but Mr. Barlow was happily spared by the philosophic forethought of a scarlet-nosed man, who suggested that a collection be taken up. The referee acted upon the suggestion and raised $10. Then the mill began and lasted four rounds. At the conclusion of the fourth the face of Hale was bleeding freely and Barlow shrilly declared the contest a draw. The chagrin of the crowd was only excelled by the disgust of the police.

was elaborately decorated with palms, flowers and vines, and an orchestra discoursed music throughout the evening. There was a very large attendance and the prospective bride and groom received many gifts. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hufford enter-tained the February and June High School classes of '94, last evening, at their home on Park avenue. They were assisted by the teachers of the High School, Miss Dye, Miss Edson, Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. Carey, Miss Donnan and Miss Sellick. The rooms were tastefully arranged with flowers. In the parlor was a table heaped with red clover blossoms, the four-leaf clover being the design of the February class. Other flowers were on the mantels and tables. In the bay window in the second parlor the white draperies were hung from white satin ribbons, white being the High School color, and they were draped back at the side with purple and lemon (February) at the left, and gold and white (June) at the right. Palms and ferns filled the window. In one room lemonade was served by Miss McClellan and Miss Shaw. During the evening a number of the High School pupils and others gave an impromptu programme of vocal and instrumental solos and concerted numbers. The refreshments were in color and form appropriate to the class designs, stars and clovers and white and yellow. To-day the members and others will be at the High School to show the exhibit of the several departments. LAKE-FINCH.
